ALMA MATER

Oh, Arms, our Alma Mater

All hail to thee, all hail!
Behind thee stands the tower,
Before thee leads the trail.
Thy sons and daughters ever
Thy praises loud will sing.
Oh, Arms our Alma Mater,
Accept our offering.

We love thee, dear Old Arms
Thy colors red and white.
Where'er our work may call us
Thy memory shall be bright.
We'll ever guard thy honor,
And true to thee we'll be,
Oh, Arms, our Alma Mater,
All hail! All hail to thee.

"Oh, Arms our Alma Mater . . ." Time after time this melody is heard at school functions without thought to its own story. Around 1929, Elizabeth Outhouse and a group of her classmates decided, at the suggestion of the principal, Mr. Lucien Burns, to write a school song. For some time they had been trying to make school spirit better by songs to sing at the Greenfield Fair. Many study halls were spent up in Science Hall, in work on his project. Finally, the group chose as a basis the tune of the University of New Hampshire song. And thus the Arms Alma Mater came to be.

Through the years the Alma Mater has been entwined with many memories . . . freshman reception . . . basketball games . . . magical prom nights . . . class day and finally graduation . . . On the melody of our song is strung a garland of memories.

DEDICATION

Because you have patiently guided us to an awareness of the importance of traffic safety, because you have, by your example, shown us the value of an informed citizenry, because you have prepared those among us who are college-bound for a more mature kind of academic life, and because you have taught us the art of independent thinking, we, the Class of 1965, proudly dedicate the Arms Student to you, Paul H. Levy.

"William Shakespeare's often quoted phrase about 'All the world's a stage . . .' is so very true of life. At this point, you are about to make an entrance on that stage. For the past several years you have been preparing for his time. Some of your choices have been made, such as the kind of part you will play, the goals you want to achieve, the sort of person you are; and most of the really important decisions lie ahead now. Many questions will not be answered in full until the play is over.

"The cue has been given: stand erect, take a deep breath, rely on your heritage of home, church, and school to carry you through to success and happiness. Have faith and courage and you will succeed.

"My very best wishes go with you all."

Our three cooks, Mrs. Phillips, Mrs. Spencer, and Mrs. Croften, not only are kept busy preparing hot lunches for some three hundred hungry Arms students, but they also are frequently asked for their assistance when other minor emergencies arise. For instance, where does the chemistry class beg brown sugar when they are experimenting with charcoal or bone black as a filter? The kitchen. Where does the physics class go to secure ice for the construction of a thermocouple? The kitchen. If a student on a diet wishes to keep his lunch in the refrigerator or if we wish to surprise a favorite teacher with a birthday cake, our friends in the cafeteria are always ready to help, by hiding it for us. Arms graduates will always remember and appreciate these acts of kindness.

Mrs. Harriet Phillips, Mrs. Peg Spencer, and Mrs. Doris Croften.

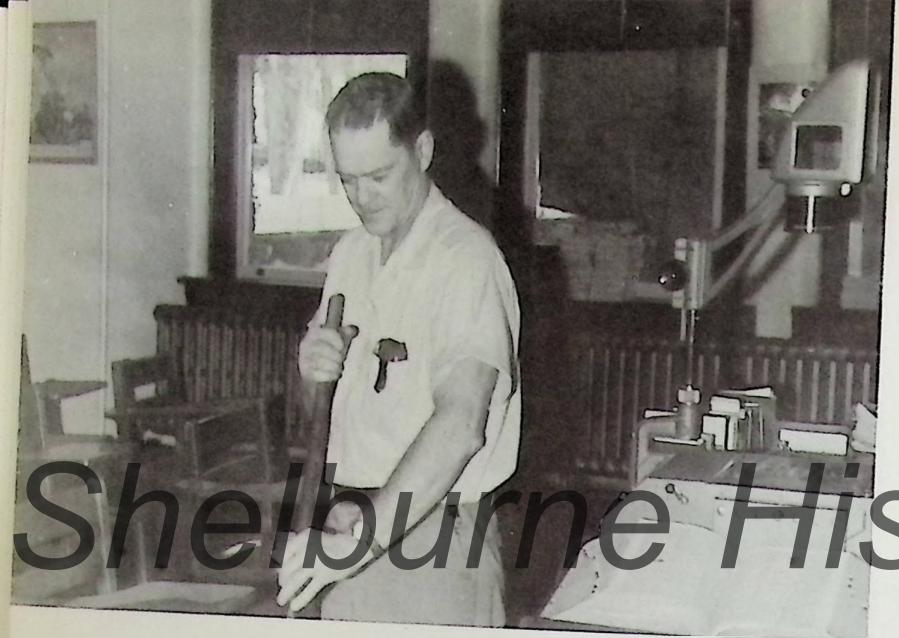

Service With a Smile

Another indispensable member of the non-teaching personnel is Mrs. Sumner who can be counted upon for any number of assists offered to students. As school secretary, Mrs. Sumner is the one who obligingly allows us the use of the office phone, makes phone calls for us pertaining to school activities, helps out if a student becomes ill, looks up back records needed for any number of reasons, and in general, keeps the wheels of Arms rolling smoothly. Alumni will long remember Mrs. Sumner for service far beyond the call of duty.

Mrs. Rachel Sumner

Mr. Floyd Burnap

Who are those two gentlemen known to every student at Arms and regarded as personal friends by all? Why, our janitors, of course, Mr. Burnap and Mr. Jenks.

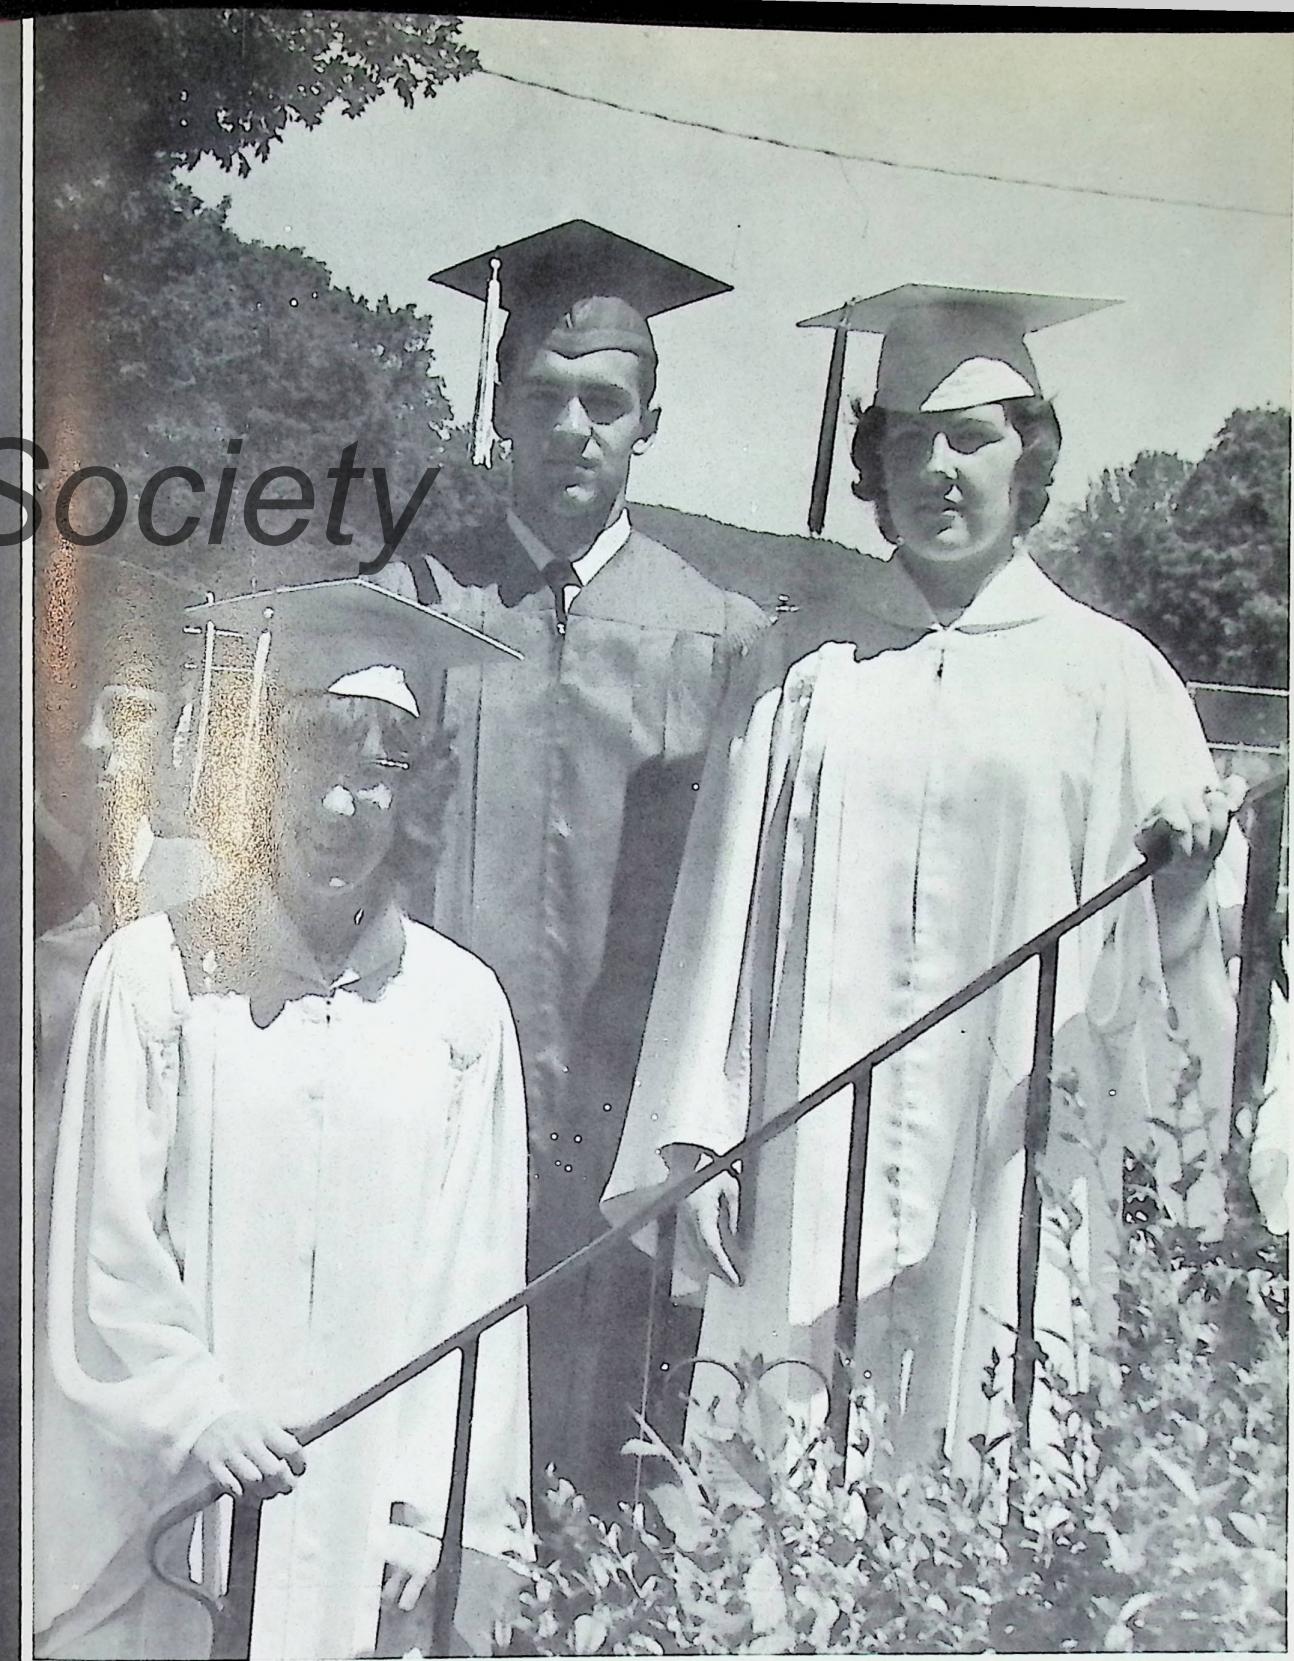

No matter where our paths may lead after commencement, no matter how far from Arms we may stay, Mr. Jenks and Mr. Burnap will be remembered by Arms graduates as the janitors who knew every student by name, who greeted everyone with a smile, who patiently swept around students who stayed after school to work on various projects and inevitably found themselves in the way of a broom. They will be remembered for their willingness to oblige in any way they could, whether it was helping to set up the PA system or unlocking the gym door after hours so a negligent student could clean out his locker before vacation. So we now thank you both for your kindness and consideration over the past four years.

After four action-packed years, we must settle down to the point at hand of what to do upon graduation. Just how may we best utilize all our education? How can we be sure we are making the wisest decision concerning our future? These are the two important questions which haunt seniors each year, but we are sure that our parents and teachers have tried to prepare us for this momentous decision; we must not fail them!

Although we become separated by miles and all too soon by years, we shall forever cling to our cherished memories of Arms, and await with anticipation the joy of our first reunion.

It has long been the custom at Arms for the graduating class to leave to Arms Academy a gift which will be of benefit to future classes. Over the years, such useful items as clocks, audio-visual equipment, a new public address system for games and dances, and equipment for the ice hockey team have been given.

Now the Class of 1965 is faced with the decision of what will be the best momento to leave to the students of Arms before we depart and go our separate ways. Whatever our decision is, we hope that it will benefit the students of Arms Academy as past class gifts have benefited us.

Most of our cares seem unimportant now, as we complete what all educators term our most "difficult" year. And we must agree, the heavy weight of SAT's, achievements, and other college entrance tests really challenged our minds. But did these batteries of tests really prepare us for what is to come? In all probability it is difficult to say that the total results are indicative of what we should do; however they do aid us in realizing our potential abilities.

Now as we look forward to our senior year, we view the future with apprehension. We will ever be as able as the present class before us? Can we fulfill the challenges they leave behind? Only time will tell.

As upper classmen we were expected to set worthy examples; however, we were much too busy participating in sports, on dance committees, in class meetings, and diligently working out the daily problems of homework! After all this was the year to be "wise fools"; everything we did seemed so perfect!

Seriously, we did begin to settle down some, for we realized that our marks were the important factor in our futures. But, being occupied with varied activities and leading our teenage lives, we tended to forget our goals momentarily, until we saw the outgoing senior class and knew we were one step closer to making a decision.

We have now nearly completed our first year at Arms Academy, and what a year it has been! That first day—would we ever learn our way around? Class elections . . . freshman reception . . . the games . . . dances . . . exams . . . our own one-act play. Someday we will be among the sports stars, the student council officers, the Silver A holders. But for now we are the freshmen, an integral part of the school—its sports, its clubs, its government. And we will grow with them, in knowledge, wisdom, and maturity.

Christmas Dance

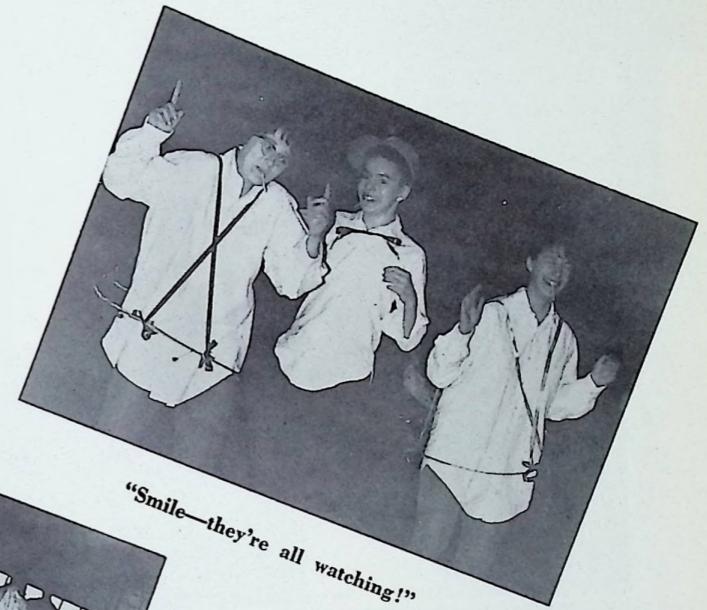

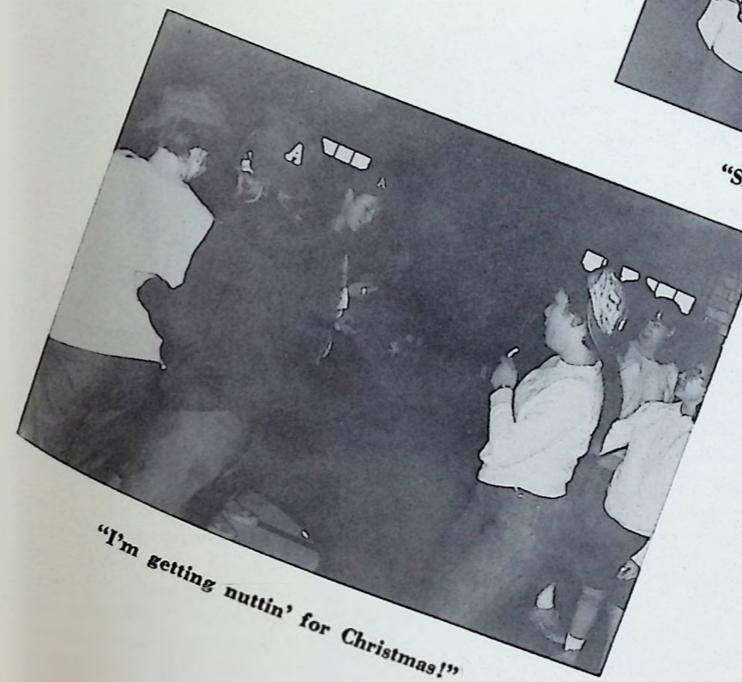

This year, instead of the traditional Christmas Prom, the Student Council put on a dance for the Student Body. Christmas spirit reigned supreme and a pleasant evening was had by all who attended.

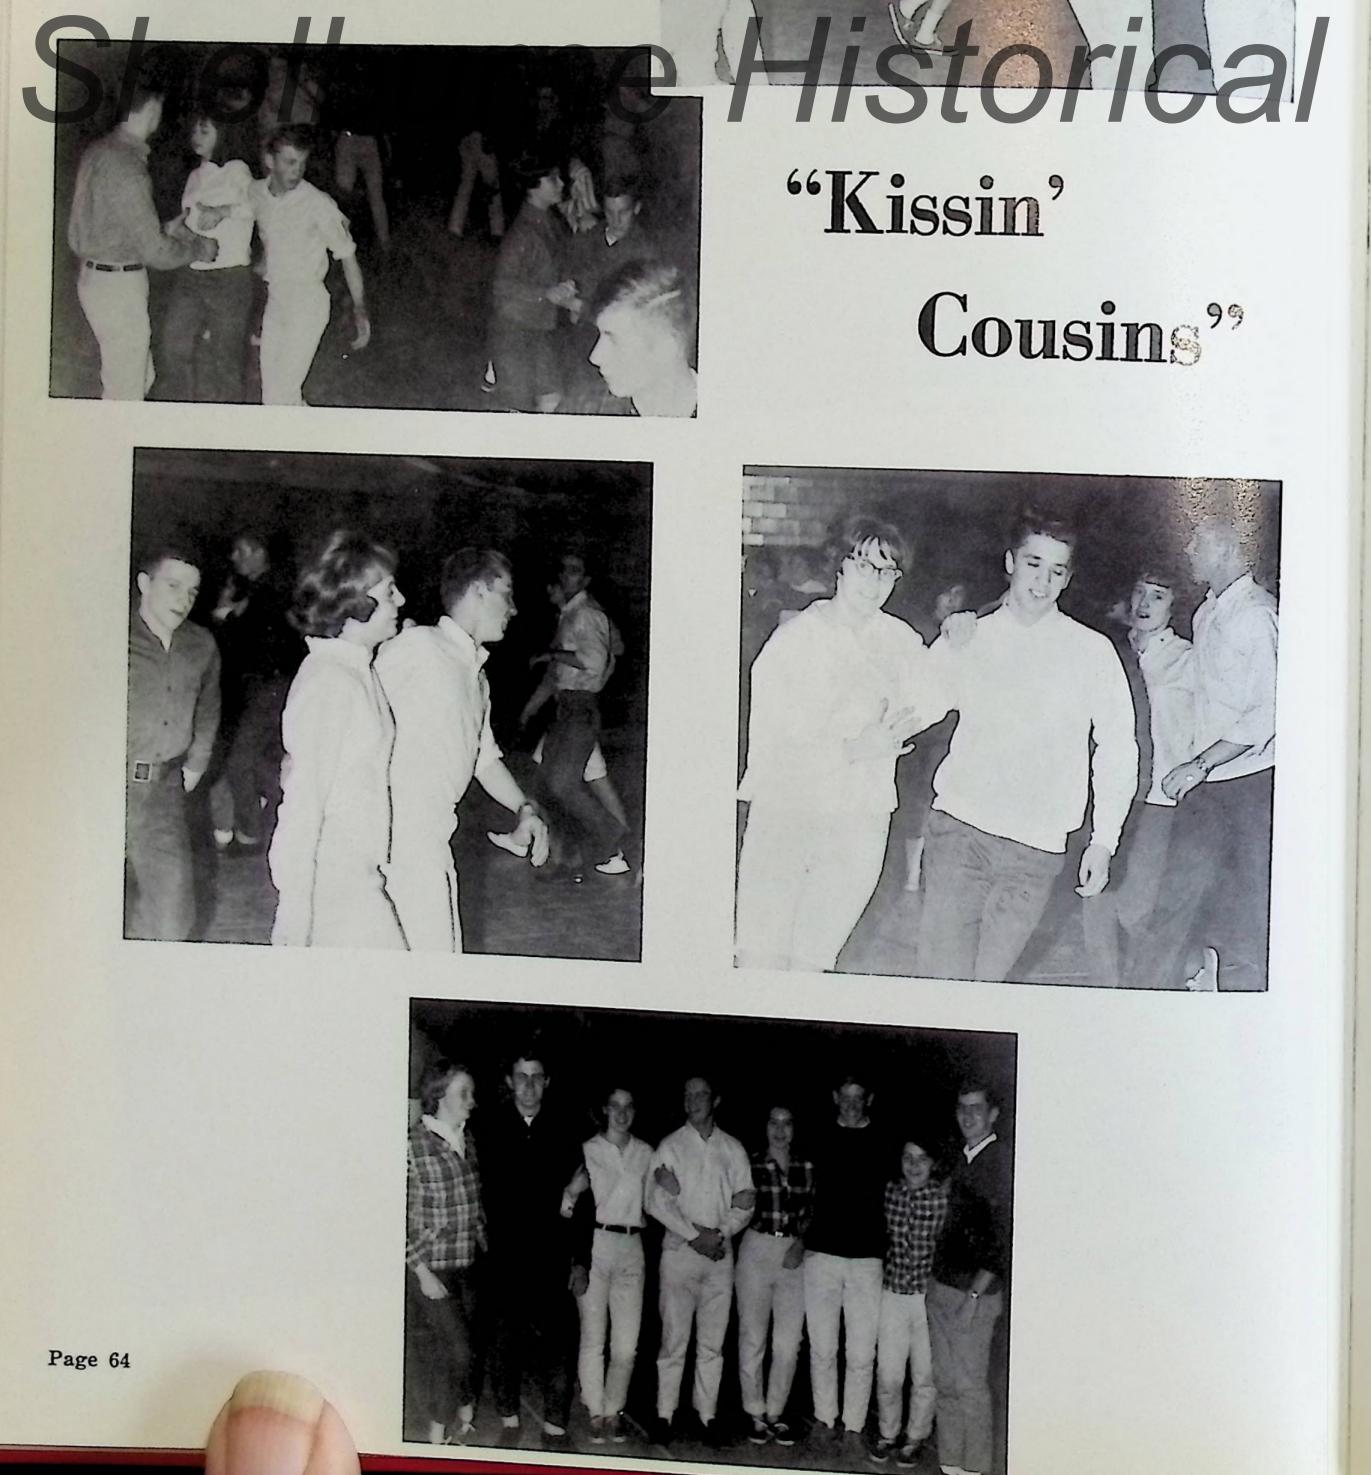

Christmas Assembly

The Christmas Assembly, presented by the sophomore class, put everyone in a holiday mood. Antics included a visit from Santa, his dancing elves, and his trotting reindeer.

The band and chorus also provided their share of the entertainment. Highlights were presentation of Silver "A's" and a Varsity "A" blazer. The sophomores were highly complimented for a job well done!

The first social event of the school year, the Freshmen Reception provided an opportunity for the incoming freshmen to be formally presented to the teachers. Highlights of the evening were the traditional receiving line, the grand march, and a pep rally. All these combined to make the evening a memorable one for all.

As we nervously peeked out into the audience, we were certain that the total performance of "Meet Me At The Prom" would be rather shaky. But like experienced Hollywood actors and actresses, we realized that the show had to go on—all those people out there were waiting for it. As we stepped on the stage and became engrossed in our parts, however, the butterflies subsided, and at curtain call, a hearty applause assured us that our efforts had pleased our patrons.

Magazine Drive

Once again, all the students at Arms participated in an all-out fund raising drive for the benefit of the Student Association. The annual magazine drive gave students the opportunity to show their school and class spirit and to compete for valuable prizes while they gained sales experience in selling subscriptions to local citizens. As usual, Arms went way over the quota, and the senior class outsold each of the underclasses, meriting a $25 prize to add to the treasury.

They are found in all aspects of life at Arms. Who are they? Why, the Silver "A" holders—the students chosen by their classmates as outstanding examples of loyalty, attitude, character, disposition, and co-operation. The Silver "A" carries with it a deep honor, a standard to uphold, and the responsibility of being an example both to and of the school.

"Literature, anyone?"

The National Honor Society is comprised of students who have shown high achievement in character, leadership, scholarship, and service. This past year, under the direction of Mrs. Haller, the society has sponsored a carwash and started a bookstore in the cafeteria. Thus each student in the group has found membership not only an honor but also a source of enjoyment and interest.

"Where 'er our work may call us . . .", no matter what the future has in store, Arms Academy prepares its students for the years that lie ahead. Everyone interested in a career relating to agriculture, education, or medicine has the special opportunity to explore the future via the Future Farmers, Future Nurses, or Future Teachers of America.

Arms FFA boys can always be counted on to take top honors in many fields of judging, while the FTA annually spend one day observing at the local elementary school. The FNA invites speakers and writes to various hospitals and colleges for information on nursing courses. Certainly the knowledge gained by the members of these organizations during their high school years is of great value when they enter their various occupations.

Ticket Takers

"Tickets, please!" This is the main cry uttered by the people who unselfishly offer their services at home football and basketball games. These students are often neglected for their school responsibility, but adviser Mr. Edmund Palmeri makes note of the loyal members and awards them well-deserved emblems.

Debate Club

Resolved: That the Debate Club of Arms Academy will hereby receive recognition from the student body for service to the school and themselves. Having participated in the Pioneer Valley Debating League and a state-wide tournament at the University of Massachusetts, they displayed outstanding sportsmanship!

Student Council

The Student Council is the representative body of the school. Comprised of the president, the vice-president, and the representatives of each class, it gives members a chance to air the views of the student body. The group, under the direction of Mr. Nathan Hale, sponsors many school activities throughout the year. A position on the Student Council is a responsibility as well as a privilege recognized by all.

Arms Academy is fortunate in having a band consisting of approximately 50 members, under the expert direction of Mr. Stanley Smithers. The band takes part in the annual spring concert, the exchange concert, and adds to various school activities, such as football games, class plays and assemblies.

For those who enjoy singing the chorus is the ideal activity. Every Tuesday and Thursday strains of favorite melodies are heard emanating from the gym. Under the direction of Mr. Stanley Smithers, the group participates in assemblies, class day, graduation, and the annual spring concert. This year the group had the special distinction of having five members chosen for All-District Chorus.

Varsity "A" and Ski Clubs

Two Sports clubs—the Varsity "A" Club and the Ski Club—provide an opportunity for Arms athletes to join together in projects and fun. The Varsity "A" Club is open to holders of varsity letters in sports. This club sponsors such projects as the refreshment stand at basketball games and the annual carwash, using proceeds to buy pins for members and jackets for recipients of 5 letters.

The Ski Club, open to those interested in skiing, sponsors trips to nearby ski slopes. Thus these two clubs provide fun and fellowship to many at Arms.

Arms Sentinel

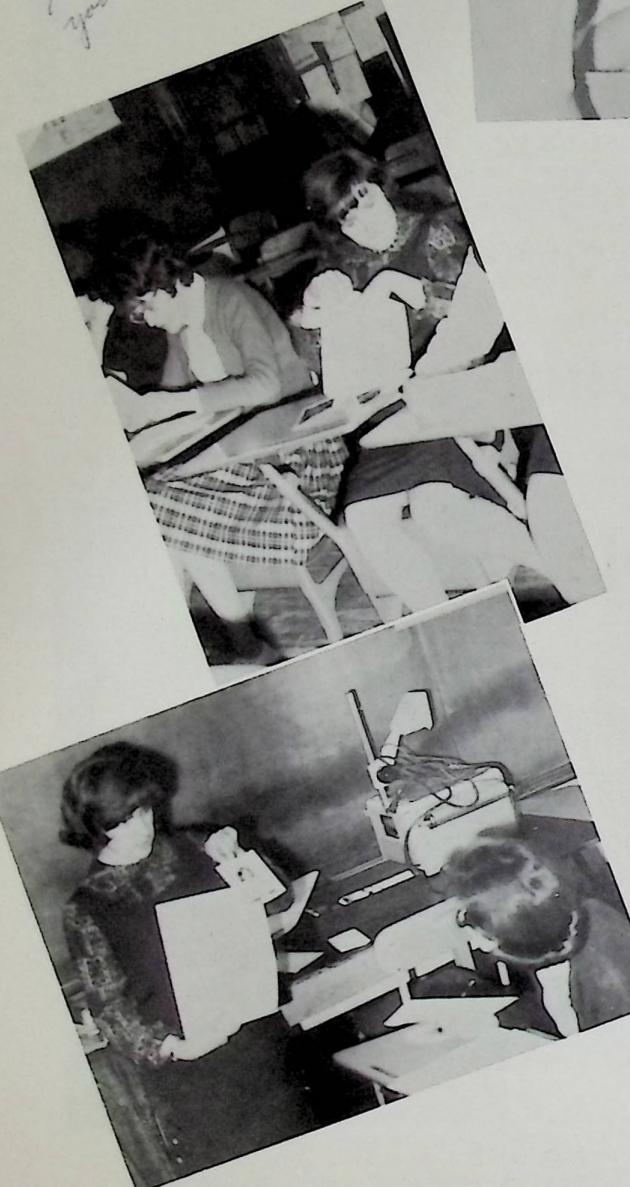

All the news—Arms style! That is the specialty of the Arms Sentinel staff. Members of this group report on the goings on about school and comment on world and national events. Another important function is to enter articles in the "Teen Scene" section of the local paper. A position on this staff is an important service to the school.

Arms Student

As the yearbook staff organized last spring, we decided that given this sufficient amount of time we could and would come up with a unique idea. However, it seemed at the time that all sources of yearbook ideas had been exhausted. Not quite! While mulling over various possibilities we hit upon the "unique" idea, that of combining our fondest memories with the refrains of our Alma Mater.

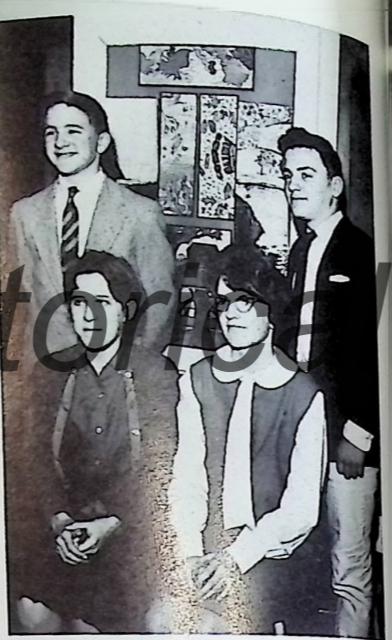

As we were assigned our duties and considered our plan of attack, we made certain that meticulous care would be the main requirement. Since a full school schedule provided only a few hours of work time, we carried on work at week-end yearbook parties. Although this seemed unlikely, we succeeded in meeting many a deadline over popcorn, soda, and chips! And the eventual results came to be in this yearbook.

Because we the staff feel that this is the finest copy of the Arms Student, we are naturally anxious for you to enjoy hours of browsing. And we, too, will recall the hours of tedious effort and determination in producing this book which has given us our enjoyment and satisfaction in its completion.

Field Day

Shelburne Historical Society

Field Day, 1964, climaxed the spring activities prior to graduation. After the final exams, the students hurried to Cricket Field for an afternoon of friendly competition, which the Juniors (Class of 1965) won, hands down. Everyone agreed that the program of track and field events, pie-eating contest, and other games, was worth repeating in the future.

Twirlers

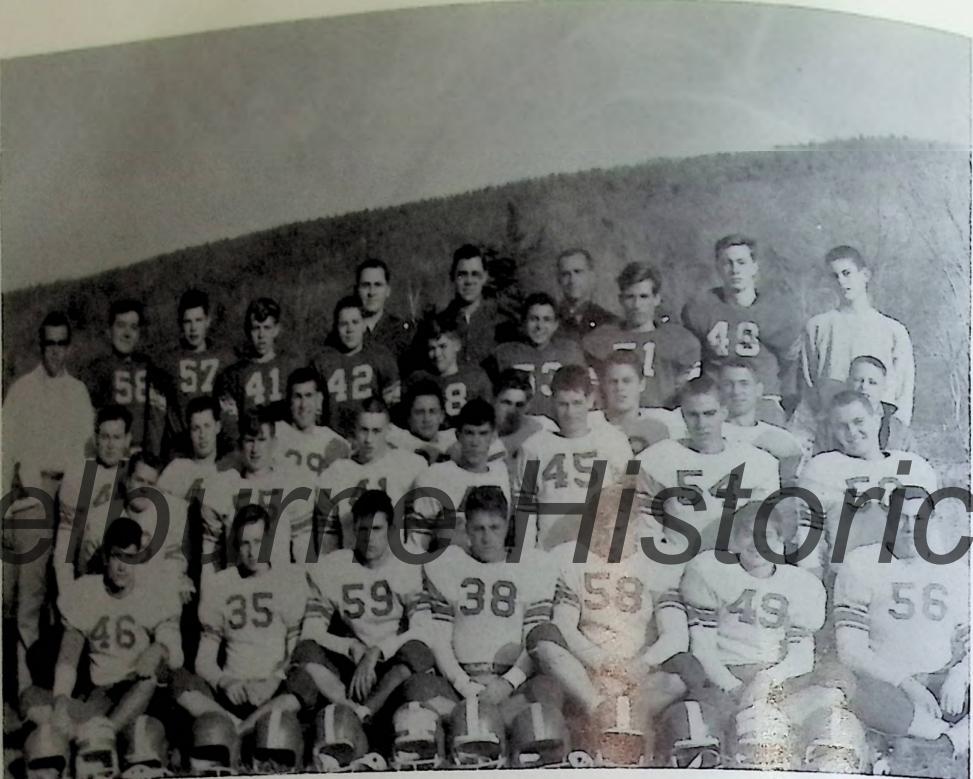

The Arms twirlers, attired in bright red uniforms, were seen often during the football season, leading parades, performing their snappy routines at games, and adding pep and vivacity to the Booster Day Rally.

Each day after school during the fall, these girls could be seen in the gym, diligently practicing. And each Saturday proved their work was not in vain, for each performance was most pleasing to the spectator's eye.

Surely, these girls deserve a great deal of credit for a job well done.

The season ended with a final upset when Arms came through with a scoreless tie against Frontier.

Arms Academy hailed the 1964 field hockey team as the first to have a winning season in the history of the sport at Arms. The first team to play inter-school hockey was formed in 1960 by Mrs. Nancy McCloud, and several of the present seniors were then eighth-graders on the J.V. squad. That team had a 3-3-1 season. Since then, each succeeding team has tried to emulate the 1960 record, but they lacked strength and experience. This year, the girls decided, was the year to win, and the seniors, many of whom helped to get hockey started at Arms, and Miss Brassard, who nursed it from its second year to the present, were especially desirous of victory. And victory it was—the result of skill, hard work, and determination. Team members will long remember the 1964 season and the annual banquet that followed at which Linda Burnap received the coveted Most Valuable Player Award and Sue Pike received the Most Improved Player Award.

'64 Cross Country Squad

The 1964 Cross Country Team combined skill and many long hours of practice which determined an exciting season and many close meets. Captain Dave Bishop and Bob McQuade strived and succeeded in making their senior year a remembered one for the team.

Most of the team consisted of underclassmen who worked consistantly to improve themselves and were rewarded with a victory at their last meet with Williston Academy. The squad also made a favorable showing at the Western Massachusetts Meet at the University of Massachusetts.

Girls' Basketball 1964-1965

The Arms Academy Girls' Basketball Team completed the 1964-65 season in a blaze of triumph. Both teams combined effort, skill, and enthusiasm to produce the best season in many years, the varsity record being an astonishing 11-5.

At the annual spaghetti banquet held at Miss Brassard's apartment, the Most Valuable Player Award was presented to Becky Shaw, Most Improved to Sue Pike, and a new award, to the Outstanding JV Player was presented to Martha Lively.

The 1964-65 basketball team fought through a thrill-packed season to the delight of their many fans. The second half of the season was especially exciting as Arms succeeded in upsetting some of the top teams in the Hampshire League. The final game with Frontier was a well-earned victory, and Arms finished fourth in the league, a considerably better position than we have held in recent years.

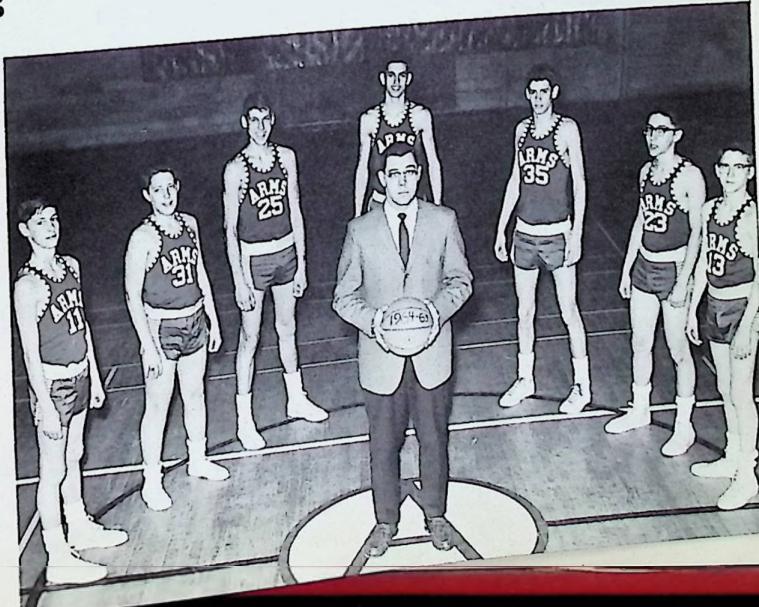

The junior varsity also completed a victorious season, winning nearly every contest they entered. Truly, this was a basketball season to be long remembered.

A photograph of a park during autumn. The trees are heavily laden with fallen leaves in shades of yellow, orange, and red. A paved path or road curves through the center of the frame. In the background, a small building and a parking sign are visible. The image is framed by a red border.
